

WNCC Basketball

Community Pride

The men's basketball team help out in the community such as the United Way Day of Caring, where players help to clean up houses in Scottsbluff and Gering. In these two pictures, players scrap paint, while some stomp out weeds.

The Cougar men's basketball players are popular with little kids, and at a Cougar pep rally at Monument Mall, many youngsters (and adults) took advantage to have their pictures taken and get autographs of their favorite players.

These players take time out at the Rent-A-Cougar auction before they stepped on the sale block to donate their time in working for whichever business or individual won their services for a day.

WNCC Basketball Community Pride

(right) During halftime of a soccer match, a men's basketball player plays one-on-one with a youngster. This shows just how popular the players are in the community with youngsters.

(right center) Members of the basketball team visit with community members during a pep rally at a local park. The players were available for autographs and photos.

(above) Basketball players help out with the annual Cougar Golf Classic.

(right) Basketball players, pictured in the front row, are often seen watching local high school sports along with their dorm families, showing that they also support the junior high and high school players.

WNCC players also go to elementary schools to talk about Red Ribbon Week and read to students.

